Forecast for Sunday 19 Dec 2021

Weather: Dry with clear skies on the tops. Summit temperatures a few degrees colder than previous days, but still feeling mild for the time of year. A colder day in the glens, with some low cloud or fog, this likely to be persistent in the eastern glens.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 100%, but low cloud often persistent in the glens.

Visibility: Excellent on the summits. Poor in any fog in the glens, often down to a few hundred meters, this likely to be more extensive and persistent across the Angus and eastern Aberdeenshire glens. Some patchy cloud around 700m across eastern hills after dusk.

Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View

A good chance of cloud inversions, most likely on the eastern munros in the afternoon. Beware of remaining snowfields which are likely to be icy, especially in shaded locations.

Forecast for Monday 20 Dec 2021

Weather: Remaining dry. A colder day on the tops. Munro tops are likely to be above the cloud once again, particularly in the morning, but patchy cloud may rise to engulf the summits at times

Maximum wind: Light and variable.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 60% at munro level, 20-30% at lower levels.

Visibility: Excellent above the cloud, but often dropping to poor below around 900m in patchy cloud, this occasionally extending above the summits. Fog in the glens likely to be patchier than previous days.

Temperature: Glens: Plus 1 or 2 Celsius
At 800m: 0 or plus 1 Celsius
Freezing level: 800-900m, but pockets of sub-zero air in coires and glens.
